Going through The Complete Works was like undertaking an exciting journey, with something enlightening revealed at each stage. Joanne is a warm, open person with good people skills and it felt like spending time with a really clued-up helpful sister or friend.

I'd lost track of what my personal style was, but Joanne used her knowledge, passion and her keen sense of intuition to work it out. I was really surprised to learn from her that with the addition of just a few key pieces in my wardrobe (working within my slightly restricted budget), I could put together several stylish outfits to suit the varied requirements of my life here.

After four years of wardrobe nightmares and confusion over my personal style, I'm back on track and confident that my streamlined capsule wardrobe now works for the lifestyle changes I made when I moved to Mallorca.
